Course information
Whether you have an undergraduate background in business, or in another field like engineering, arts, science or humanities, Curtin’s Graduate Diploma in Applied Finance offers a solid grounding in finance and business management.

The Graduate Diploma in Applied Finance is an engaging, industry-relevant course for professionals who want to advance their careers through a deeper understanding of financial accounting, financial principles, finance instruments and markets, econometrics, economics, portfolio management, corporate finance, business financial modelling and culture and ethics.

On graduation you may choose to extend your studies to the Master of Commerce (Applied Finance) or apply what you have learned to your workplace.

Industry connections
Maintaining strong links with industry is critical to ensuring that we are serving the needs of our students and the workforce. Curtin Business School has established a network of advisory boards – groups of industry representatives who support the school by providing invaluable business knowledge. These industry professionals have direct input into the curriculum of the Graduate Diploma in Applied Finance ensuring our students are industry-ready on graduation.

This course may incorporate guest lectures from finance professionals, real-life practical assignments and case studies, and industry networking opportunities.
