Course information
This course is designed for applicants wanting to advance their careers in the area of logistics and supply chain management. The course will meet the needs of those professionals with technical and supervisory skills in logistics and supply chain management with or without a first degree.

Completion of this course can lead to entry onto the Master of Supply Chain Management or the Master of Commerce (Supply Chain Management).

Curtin is the only university that offers postgraduate logistics and supply chain management courses in Western Australia. Our dynamic relationship with industry, along with our applied and professional emphasis, ensures that our students’ education remains relevant to the real world – locally and internationally.

About logistics and supply chain management
Logistics and supply chain professionals manage the supply of goods and services from the point of origin (supplier), to its final destination (customer), in the fastest, safest and most cost-effective way possible. As the international business sector grows and the need for efficient product distribution increases, experts in logistics and supply chain management are becoming more important.

Industry connections and professional recognition
On graduation, you may be eligible for membership to the Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transportation Australia (CILTA) and/or the Logistics Association of Australia (LAA).

Curtin Business School (CBS) has established a network of advisory boards – groups of industry representatives who support the school by providing invaluable business knowledge. These industry professionals have direct input into the curriculum of the logistics programs, helping to ensure that you are industry-ready on graduation. Our courses incorporate guest lectures from logistics professionals, real-life practical assignments and case studies, as well as industry networking opportunities.

Curtin Business School is an accredited member of AACSB International - the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business.
INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS
